THE 2013 YEAR IN REVIEW The year in review is a place to assess what went right and what went wrong in the past 12 months. It's a period for reflection, for looking back and thinking about the last 12 months and working out where you think you would like to take yourself, where you want to take your company and where you want to take your business in the year to come. The challenges and the opportunities of 2012 have been highlighted by the many changes that occurred both within the company and in our wider business community. Above all, 2012 was a year of change in the most positive way and the year in review will give you a positive road map for the year ahead. What's going right? Our industry has been on an incredible journey through the last 12 months. In an already competitive space, we've accelerated the expansion of our global Web Designer Apps portfolio. We've rolled out a series of very successful campaigns, along with numerous others that have generated a great deal of interest, and put new skills on the map. Our annual tutorial programme has also proven to be very popular, and we've established ourselves as a fully professional organisation with a really impressive list of professionals for a small team. Our prices have never been better in the last 12 months and our direct team's responsiveness has never been greater. Our commitment to outstanding design has never been stronger and our commitment to our customers has never been greater. We are established as a multi-award winning team and the value for money we've built up over the years is now recognised across the industry. We have been able to make the necessary changes to our team to support our growth and the goal we have set for 2013 and we are confident that we are now delivering a world-class service. Our industry is now recognised as a contributor to the wider economic recovery, and our organisation is receiving the first-class support that we deserve. We see a bright future for our company as we carry out the many changes that we need

When it comes to fast loading websites, a good first step can be to ensure that your page has adequate speed. We can design your site and install all kinds of plugins, but you don't want to wait in excess of two minutes for it to load. So, you know what to do. Now, it's time to figure out which plugins will help reduce the load times of your site. This list includes plugins and extensions we've used or are in the process of using in our own design projects. If you're using Google Chrome and have the appropriate settings already enabled, you can just select "Online" and it will immediately update the results. But, to get our readers the most results, we've included plugins in each category. Plugins for Modern websites are experiencing a shift in branding that favors a bold typeface, extreme white space and less distractions. Whether we like it or not, consumers are used to seeing "basics" like these on websites, including How can we measure in real time what color the human eye is perceiving? Even the best designers fall victim to it. Each design project needs a plan. This plan may consist of numerous elements, but the most important one is color. We have already given a number of tips to help you plan out your project, but we all know that developing a good plan doesn't necessarily mean that the design will be accomplished. And, frankly, the last thing we would like is to come up with something creative and forget what we've planned. That is why our guide to planning
