This updater helps to update the databases of your anti-virus and anti-spyware products. Once you run it, it will first check if the latest database updates are available from the Kaspersky Lab website. If there are updates available, the updater will download them to a folder. However, if there are no updates available from the Kaspersky Lab website, the updater will also download the updates from the Kaspersky Updates.com servers. Once the update has been downloaded, it will then check to see if the correct version of the database updater is installed on the computer. If it is, the database updater will check the databases of the anti-virus and anti-spyware software. It will then check to see if the databases need to be updated. If they do, it will then download the database updates and apply them to the databases. It will then also re-install any programs which were removed during the database updates. Once the updater has been run, you must be sure to run the updater on a different computer or one that is not connected to the Internet. You should also make sure the updater has not been closed before running it. Important: The database updater can also be used to update your databases from the Internet. The updater should be run on a computer that is not connected to the Internet and is only used to update your databases. This is important because it will prevent other software which is available on the Internet from adding updates to your databases. It will also prevent a virus or other threats from infecting your databases when using a computer which is not connected to the Internet.
