This the Most Preposterous Video Yoda Has Ever Made?

Featuring images from a not-so-distant future, this is a video created by Yoda. In case you were wondering, Yoda's directorial debut is titled "In a Shadow of a Space Station." It takes place in a not-so-distant future in which the real world has been influenced by the Star Wars universe. The movie not only features some insanely pretty creatures—they look like something out of a dream or nightmare or both—but also the immortal red creature that, in order to protect itself from memory-wiping machines, created the Dyson sphere.

Needless to say, the visuals are quite striking. The entire film was made using footage from real-life space missions. I wouldn't say this is one of Yoda's most effective films (it wasn't even nominated for an Academy Award), but it's still pretty fun to watch. Unfortunately, Yoda is doing his best to keep his voice in a vacuum, which results in a lot of different sounds at times. However, the new video is undoubtedly the most preposterous thing he's ever done. The clip, which was uploaded on June 5, has racked up more than 2 million views in two days. The funniest thing about the video is the scintillating opening narration. In case you don't
